Municipality of the County of Kings

March 2nd, 2017

A NEW BEGINNING Council is Prepared to Start from Scratch

KINGS COUNTY, NS: The Municipality of the County of Kings is seeking public input in regards to the new Municipal Complex.

Our current building on Cornwallis Street in Kentville has been sold and we are looking for new quarters. Council has determined that the previous consultation process with its staff and citizens was incomplete. To ensure proper consultation, Council has decided to restart the consultation process.

Council would like to hear your thoughts and recommendations regarding all facets of the plan, including, among others, your views, visions and recommendations with respect to:

- Purpose of Building – Should this be a single purpose project (not a “Complex”, but a suite of offices) or should it be multi-purpose (a “Complex”)?
- Partners – If the building is to be multi-purpose, are there any potential capital partners wanting to participate (libraries, wellness activity areas, etc.)?
- Location – The current plan is to locate the Public Works building on the same site (separate building) as the offices. Property has been acquired and site-work has been completed in Coldbrook. Is this the best location or are there others that should be considered?
- Amenities – Maximize available amenities to staff, council and the public for access, space and functionality.

Please give these matters serious thought so you are ready to provide us with your input when the time comes. Written proposals for partnerships can be sent to, Rick Ramsay, CAO, at r Ramsay@countyofkings.ca.

Dates will soon be announced for two public consultation sessions. These will be advertised on our website, social media, the radio, and local papers.
